The Forbes. An important family, dating from the time of William the Lion, their place of origin being in the Aberdeenshire Highlands. The barony of Forbes was created by James I. of Scotland in about 1442, the present holder of the title being the 19th Lord. Several other members are bearers of ancient titles. One of the family commanded a troop of horse in the Scots Army at the Battle of Worcester and took Charles I. safely off the field, after the latter's horse had been shot under him. The war cry of the clan is "Lonach," the name of a mountain in Strath Don, and the clan badge "Broom."
